

The Coroners Toolkit

The loss of a loved one is a deeply personal and painful experience. For many Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander families, navigating the Coroners Court system during this time can add further distress.

Thirrili, in partnership with Norton Rose Fulbright, has developed a set of culturally safe resources to support families and communities through this process.

These Coroners Toolkits provide clear, practical information about what to expect, explain the role of the Coroner, and offer guidance on how families can engage with the process in a way that respects their cultural protocols and ensures their voices are heard.

Our hope is that these resources help make a difficult journey a little easier to navigate.
